DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either DE 3048303 A1 or Schultes, taken in view of Kessler.

DE 3048303 A1 (Fig. 3) and Schultes (Figs. 1 and 2) each alternatively disclose applicant's invention as recited by instant claim 6, except for the openings within the contact plate covering an area of 10 to 20% of the contact plate. Each of the alternative primary references do specifically disclose straight rows of irregularities formed by continuously smooth sinusoidal waves, wherein adjacent peaks and valleys of the adjacent rows of the contact plates form openings which allow liquid from the front of one sheet to pass to the back of an adjacent sheet.

Kessler (Figs. 5 and 6; col. 3, lines 29-32) disclose a similar contact plate structure having sinusoidal waves, wherein apertures therein are specifically taught to cover applicant's claimed range of percentage of sheet area, thus insuring contact of all surfaces of the sheets with the liquid being acted upon. It would have been obvious for an artisan at the time of the invention, to optimize the percentage of open area of the apertures within the contact plates of either of the alternative primary references, in view of the teaching by Kessler, since such would insure optimal contact between the phases upon all available surface areas of the contact sheets.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground of rejection.
